

Jennings' Pumas Capture ICC Crown!

First Title Since '57; Two Upsets Mar Brilliant Season

For the first time since 1957, the Indiana Collegiate Conference Football Championship Trophy is back on the Saint Joseph's campus.

Posting a superb 8-2 record and going undefeated in conference play, the Pumas notched the best won-loss record in 14 years. The last time Saint Joseph's won 8 games was back in 1957 when Coach Bob Jauron's Pumas finished the season 8-1.

Since then Saint Joseph's has suffered through many a long season. Even when Head Coach Bill Jennings and Defensive Coach Ernie Fritsch came on the scene in 1967, things did not get better all at once. For three more years the Pumas were destined for poor or mediocre performances.

But in 1970 recruiting efforts and experience began to pay dividends as Saint Joseph's finished with a 7-2 record, barely missing out on the ICC championship. This year, with many of last season's players returning, it was a foregone conclusion among the SJC student body that the Pumas would be the 1971 champions. Even last August, before the team arrived to begin workouts, students had placed signs in the cafeteria reading "Welcome Back 1971 ICC Champs."

Led by the running of halfbacks John Hiltz (Senior-Brookfield, Wis.) and Jim Mercon (Junior-Chicago), the passing of quarterback Terry Campbell (Senior-Milwaukee, Wis.) and Bill Reagan (Sophomore-Lorain, O.) and the kicking of Dave Gandolph (Senior-Indianapolis), the Pumas won their first five games handily. It was the first time in history that an SJC team went untied and unbeaten through the first half of the season.

If the Pumas' offensive power was a threat, then the defense was nothing short of spectacular. Against the Puma defense, the first five opponents managed but one touchdown each. In all ten of the season's games, opponents gained only 857 yards compared to Saint Joseph's 1360 and scored only 117 points to SJC's 219.

their backs, and these were the games they lost. Millikin College of Illinois and Franklin of Indiana, both of whom were the victims of lopsided scores against the Pumas last year, were responsible for the Pumas' only two losses this year.

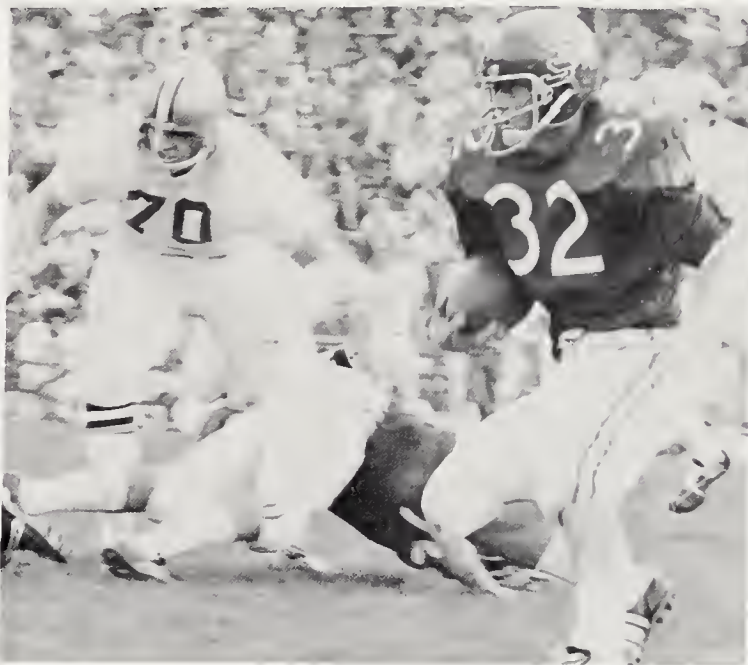

Millikin snapped SJC's five-game winning streak with an incredible performance on Saint Joseph's home field. The Pumas were a 35-point favorite to win the game, but the visitors scored first and never relinquished the lead. The fired-up Millikin team went on to hand Saint Joseph's its first defeat, 17-8 and ruin any hopes for an undefeated season.

The following week, the Pumas came back to beat Wabash, 20-7. That set the stage for the Conference Championship Game against Evansville one week later. The Purple Aces came to Collegeville with but one conference loss, 30-27 against Valparaiso. For both teams it was the last conference game, and if Evansville, who had the number 2 quarterback in the NCAA College Division, could win the game, the Aces would tie Saint Joseph's for the championship.

For nearly 4 quarters, in the best defensive game of the year, Evansville held a 3-0 lead. Then with less than 6 minutes remaining in the game, Saint Joseph's scored on a 57-yard pass-run play. The final score was 7-3, and the Pumas locked up sole possession of the conference title.

The word quietly but quickly went forth that Saint Joseph's, on the strength of its strong showing in the ICC, was being considered as one of the teams to play in the Thanksgiving Day Stagg Bowl in Chicago's Soldier Field. But those hopes came to an abrupt end one week later when underdog Franklin found a weakness in the Pumas' pass defense and humbled the ICC champs, 28-7. The following week, when SJC eliminated Illinois Benedictine College (formerly St. Procopius), another local contender for the Stagg Bowl with its 8-1 record, Bowl officials moved the site of the game to Birmingham, Ala.

Throughout the season, the Pumas were plagued with key injuries. Campbell, last year's MVP, suffered a knee injury in September and never returned to the line-up. Running Star George Vozza (Senior-E. Detroit) was also lost for most of the season.

Puma Mentor Named Coach of the Year; Six On All-Star Team

For the second consecutive year, the Indiana Collegiate Conference's 7 head football coaches have picked SJC's Bill Jennings as Coach of the Year. Jennings was the coaches' unanimous choice for the honor.

Saint Joseph's also won 2 most valuable player kudos: Bill Pospisil (Senior-Manasquan, N.J.) won a share of the ICC's most valuable defensive back award and Rich Wheeler (Senior-Columbus, O.) was named co-winner of the league's most valuable defensive lineman award.

In all, Saint Joseph's placed 11 squad members on the all-conference team, six on the first team.

College's Budget Balanced For '71-72

If all goes according to plan, the end of the current fiscal year next July 31 will show that Saint Joseph's has reversed the trend which sent the College some half-million dollars into the red during the past two years.

"For fiscal year 1971-72, the College's budget is in balance. Our expenditures will not exceed our income," states Fr. Paul Wellman, vice-president for business affairs.

To achieve the balanced budget, which was made even more difficult by a slight decrease in the September enrollment, cutbacks were made in almost every department. Only scholarships and payroll for academic personnel were excluded from the curtailments.

Scholarships were increased 11 percent to $530,225, largely due to additional funds received from Federally sponsored programs. Faculty payroll increased $37,257. Otherwise, all major areas of the budget were either frozen or reduced for the current year.

The most significant decreases were in the areas of non-academic wages and construction, resulting in a $122,000 decline in expenses from last year. Other areas cut included supplies ($19,000), food service ($30,000) and allocations to the sinking fund ($63,000). The savings on the food service came about by closing the chapel cafeteria and serving all students from the Halleck Center cafeteria.

There still remains one problem, however: How to pay off the debt from the previous two years. Fr. Wellman mentions three possible solutions: (1) an increase in enrollment, (2) an increase in charitable contributions to the College and (3) an increase in tuition. Of the three, the first two are distinct possibilities and also the more desirable. The last, a tuition increase, could produce the opposite effect by causing a further decline in enrollment. Already students and their parents, because of the high cost of private education, are opting for state universities.

Realizing that many students prefer to attend a small private college, Saint Joseph's hopes to avoid any additional tuition increases. In fact, tuition for the spring and summer sessions has been reduced for the coming terms, something quite uncommon for any college.

"Things are looking up," Fr. Wellman says. "It looks as though Saint Joseph's will emerge from the economic crisis an even better institution than before." To be sure, the financial plight of all colleges and universities has forced them to re-evaluate their programs and improve their efficiency.

Environment Major Established

Recognizing the need for people with an interdisciplinary scientific background to tackle the complexities of environmental pollution, Saint Joseph's College has initiated a four-year program leading to a bachelor of science degree in environmental science.

Interest in the program has been shown not only by students but by industrial and government leaders as well. A recent survey by the College disclosed job openings available with starting salaries ranging from $7000 to $11,000 yearly for environmental science grads. The program at Saint Joseph's is among the first to be offered by American colleges and universities.

Will the employment opportunities be as great when the current interest in pollution subsides? Dr. David Chesak, director of engineering programs and assistant professor of math at Saint Joseph's, says "sad to say, the problem of pollution will be with us long after the politicians and publicity-seeking opportunists have lost interest in it. Destruction of our environment stems from our ever-expanding technology, our population growth and the lack of concern by many people. There will always be a need for well trained environmental scientists."

Joining Chesak in the direction of the program are Dr. Andrew Mehall, chairman of SJC's biology department, and Michael Davis, chairman of the geology department.

Nearly every week the Pumas' defensive unit was ranked among the top ten NCAA College Division teams.

With five impressive victories already on the record book, it appeared nothing would stop Collegeville's version of the Big Red Machine. And then the roof fell in.

As one staff member put it, there were two games on the schedule the Pumas should have won with their hands tied behind

Members of the reunion class of '41 who returned for Homecoming on Oct. 16 were: Joe Leugers, Bill Kozielski, Ed Ancel, Tom Richert, Bob Conley, Joe Faulkner, John O'Grady, Jack Seemuth and Fr. Don Hardebeck. Also present but not pictured was Bob Sacksteder. Four other classes celebrated their reunions during SJC's largest Homecoming ever. Over 1,000 attended the festivities.

Drexel Hall Dedicated—SJC's Drexel Hall, home of the Indian Normal School during 1888-1896 and now a student dorm, was dedicated as an official site of historical interest by the Indiana Historical Society in October. Two of Saint Joseph's current students, seniors Ron Fueger of Janesville, Wis., and Mary Jo Smolen of Hammond, Ind., pose at the newly unveiled historical marker located near the main entrance to campus.

Career Days Involve Alumni—Saint Joseph's alumni participate in two career days each year on campus. Pictured here are six grads who returned for the accounting-finance career day, Oct. 18: Charles Rayburn '68 (Ernst & Ernst), Jim Woods '63 (Lybrand, Ross Bros. & Montgomery), Ed Massura '60 (Arthur Andersen & Co.), Jim Callero '66 (Callero & Callero), and Robert Egan '71 (Peat, Marwick, Mitchell & Co.). The two career days are sponsored for students majoring in the departments of accounting-finance and business.

Special Thanks

Saint Joseph's alumni employed by the public accounting firm of Arthur Andersen & Co. presented the College with a check on November 19 totaling $2,610. The amount represented the personal gifts of 15 alumni plus a matching grant contribution from Arthur Andersen.

Of the total donation, $1,430 was specified for the Rensselaer campus and $1,180 was designated for Saint Joseph's Calumet College in East Chicago, Ind. The funds were raised through an inter-office campaign conducted by the alumni.

Arthur Andersen and two other accounting firms—Ernst & Ernst and Lybrand, Ross Bros. & Montgomery—have conducted inter-office campaigns among SJC alumni for a number of years. Alumni working with other companies are planning additional inter-office campaigns for this year.
